Section. Risk factors for fracture after surgical repair of ununited femoral shaft fractures.
Fifty-four ununited femoral fractures from a prospective study of 339 ununited fractures of the femur were analysed retrospectively to identify risk factors for subsequent fracture after surgical repair. Forty-one patients had a total of 47 fractures treated with intramedullary nailing, five with external fixation, and eight with plating. Fifty-four percent of the fractures failed to unite (eight cases) and 51% of the fractures healed (46 cases) at an average follow-up of 14 months.

The union rate after plating (91%) was significantly higher than that after intramedullary nailing (79%) or external fixation (80%) (P Q:

What was the reason behind 6 radio buttons to display the records?

I am developing an application and I have used 6 radio buttons to display the records. I am getting the records from database using the data adapter and the displaying it in the gridview. The data adapter has both String and Boolean datatype. So by using the above 6 radio buttons in the gridview, I can display the records. But I am asking myself whether this is the correct approach? Is there any other approach to do this? A: e79caf774b
